Architecture undergraduate student | University of Plymouth

I am currently studying Architecture BA (Hons) at the University of Plymouth. I am passionate about contributing to positive changes within the built environment. As I am now in my third year of undergraduate reading, I am eager to continue and progress my architecture journey. Within my undergraduate degree I have completed both individual and group projects, in which both have been inspiring. Within my spare time I enjoy being a part of the Plymouth architecture society committee, participating in the university cricket club, playing the flute, sea swimming and painting.

Work experience

2024: RIBA mentorship programme, shadowing architect William Newbury on site, learning about materials and construction methods.

2023-Present: Events team at Truro Cathedral working on a team to manage and coordinate events, and assisting in the cafe on the till and serving customers.

2023: DHV Architects: architecture work experience, involving shadowing architect Izaak Hudson and on site within Cornwall, learning about project development, communication with construction workers and building conservation.

2019-2023: Events team at Rochester Cathedral working in a team to manage and coordinate events, involving ushering and serving customers within the cafe and shop.

2018-2019: British Red Cross voluntary work, working as a shop assistant, sorting donations and helping customers.

2018-2019: Volunteering in year 1 primary school class, assisting teachers with marking, reading with pupils, classroom organisation.

Interests
